BONNER WRONG, SAYS FAIREY

We Get $80 Million More Than We Pay to Ottawa

In the fiscal year 1954-55 federal government expenditures in British Columbia totaled $355,528,000, while federal revenue received from B.C. was $270,857,000, it was learned today.

A report listing the first figure was tabled in Commons following request for information by Tom Goode (Lib. Burnaby-Richmond). The second figure was received from the federal finance department by Victoria Liberal member Dr. Frank Fairey.

These figures show how far B.C. Attorney-General Robert Bonner is out, said Dr. Fairey.

PATIENTS EAT SUPPER AS FIRE RAGES IN VGH

VANCOUVER (BUP)—While patients at Vancouver General Hospital ate their evening meal Sunday night more than 20 firemen fought a smouldering fire in a locker room below them.

Units from three fire stations were used to keep the smoke from the air-conditioning unit which would have sent it through hospital wards, and probably caused panic.

Firemen used smoke ejectors and smoke masks to fight the blaze.

GRONCHI AT OTTAWA

Italy Wants Voice In Talks With Reds

OTTAWA (CP)—Italian President Gronchi today omitted from his speech to Parliament a criticism of Britain, the United States and France which had appeared in the text issued to the press before delivery.

In the prepared text of his speech, he said an obstacle to a more cohesive North Atlantic community is a "mental attitude" in Britain, the U.S. and France that these powers can best handle Western policy by themselves. He did not name the three countries but made it clear he was referring to them.

When he reached this paragraph in his address to the Canadian Senate and Commons, he skipped it entirely and continued by saying:

"It is evidently in the general interest of Western solidarity that preventive consultations, which up to now have an extraordinary character, should become the ordinary and permanent method of approaching problems of defence and peace."

It was considered unusual that a chief of state—Mr. Gronchi is not his country's political leader—should criticize other countries in a formal address. The reference to the Western Big Three was understood to have been eliminated at the last minute.

Eden Acts to Avert War As Mid-East Boils Over

Cyprus Offered New Status

LONDON (CP)—Britain announced today it has offered Cyprus a "wide measure of self-government now."

Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd made the announcement in a speech prepared for the House of Commons in conjunction with a White Paper detailing Britain's negotiations with Cypriots demanding union of the colony with Greece.

Lennox-Boyd said Britain wants to work towards a "final solution which will satisfy the people of Cyprus, be consistent with the interests of Her Majesty's government and their allies, and have regard to existing treaties."

VISITED CYPRUS

The colonial secretary rushed through the report after a flying visit to Cyprus, where the talks with the union-with-Greece faction broke down over three major issues.

Britain previously had made plain she was ready to hand over restricted self-government to the Cypriots but retaining control of foreign affairs and defence.

LISTS OBSTACLES

The white paper said the three reasons for the failure of the talks with Archbishop Makarios, leader of the union-with-Greece movement, were:

1. The archbishop's insistence on an immediate amnesty for all political prisoners on the east Mediterranean island colony, where scores are held for anti-British terrorism.

2. Whether, under self-government, the British governor should retain control of internal security in addition to foreign affairs and external defence.

3. Demands by the archbishop which would result in the Greek Cypriots outnumbering four to one the Turkish minority in the proposed constituent assembly.

Lennox-Boyd read to parliament a statement of British government policy as it was presented to Archbishop Makarios. The statement stressed that Britain had offered the 500,000 Cypriots, four-fifths of whom are of Greek descent and the rest Turkish, "a wide measure of self-government now."

Mr. Bonner had said the federal government takes more than $250,000,000 from B.C. and returns about $50,000,000.

"He does not state the $50,000,000 he refers to is only the direct payments to the government here by way of subsidies under the tax rental agreement," he said.

"Mr. Bonner conveniently ignores the other expenditures made by the federal government in B.C."

The department of finance statement to Mr. Goode showed $49,145,000 in expenditures in B.C. as compensation under tax rental and statutory subsidies. Including general health grants, old age assistance, vocational training and the like, this figure rose to $58,540,000. Including direct payments in pensions, family allowances and various other allowances, such as to veterans, the sum rose to $95,006,000.

Departmental work brought expenditures to $159,481,000, and with federal contribution to the Unemployment Insurance Fund, loans under DVA, and interest paid on government of Canada bonds, total expenditure for the fiscal year was $355,528,000.

The $270,857,000 received by the federal government in 1954-55 included $227,964,000 in income tax, $7,554,000 in succession duties, $19,689,000 in domestic excise taxes and $15,560,000 in excise duties.

EXECUTED ANTI-REDS DUMPED IN STREETS

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—A mysterious wave of terror in Communist Romania, where slain bodies have been dumped and left on the streets as public warnings, was reported here today.

Reliable informants, who said they had checked and double-checked the reports because of their "unbelievable nature" claimed that several hundred persons had been apparently summarily executed in recent months to intimidate the population.

It was believed the Red regime in Romania wished to terrorize the population and warn that opposition would not be tolerated.

Nothing of the executions has appeared in the Communist press.

Czechs Seeking Wheat, Barley

Conference in Ottawa Arranging Two-Way Pact

By VICTOR J. MACKIE, Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA, Ont.—A 14-man Czechoslovakian trade delegation is now in Ottawa working on a multi-million-dollar trade deal between Canada and Czechoslovakia, including the possible purchase of 1,000,000 bushels of wheat, it was learned today.

The Czechs are also interested in purchasing large amounts of Canadian barley and butter.

The large trade delegation arrived in Ottawa during the weekend. They consist of officials of the Czechoslovakian government and are interested in "exploring thoroughly Canadian markets, not only for possible imports from Canada but also for sales of Czechoslovakian goods in this country," a trade and commerce department spokesman said.

The wheat purchases will be for immediate delivery unlike the Russian wheat deal which involves the purchase of large quantities over a three-year period. Czechoslovakia is interested in obtaining immediately a "pretty substantial quantity," one official said.

CONTACT FIRMS

The delegation has already conferred with trade and commerce department authorities for the possible purchase of the wheat, barley and butter. They are also contacting Canadian business firms and working out deals for the sale in Canada of large amounts of Czechoslovakian products.

Bedrich Hruska, Czechoslovak minister in Ottawa, said the trade delegates delegation "already is very satisfied with their trip here."

Canadian officials said they had no knowledge of what products the Czechoslovakians were seeking to sell to Canadian businessmen. One of the products they will be selling, however, will be the traditional glassware of the Czechs.

"Canadian officials of the trade and commerce department are doing their best to help the delegation both in buying Canadian products and in selling our products," the Czech minister said.

Arab 'War Council' Gathers at Cairo After New Gunfire

(Times News Services)

LONDON—To head off threatening war in the Middle East, Prime Minister Eden today took personal command of Britain's foreign policy in the boiling Arab-Jew crisis.

Other developments:

1. New gunfire heightens Arab-Israel border tension.

2. Britain withdraws 15 top officers from Jordan's Arab Legion in resentment for King Hussein's dismissal of Lt. Gen. John Glubb.

3. Eden tells Commons Hussein's action violates the spirit of the Anglo-Jordan treaty of 1948, and affects the whole Middle East. Announces immediate talks with Britain's Mid-East allies.

4. RAF transports sent to Cyprus to evacuate Britons from Jordan, if the situation worsens.

5. Arab leaders gather in Cairo for "council of war."

Eden faced an angry House of Commons today and rebellion within his own Conservative party. Many Tories are publicly calling for a British crackdown in the Middle East and an end to "appeasement."

Earlier Eden called top military men to an emergency cabinet review of the Mid-East situation.

New gunfire on the Israeli border, in which Arabs were wounded and captured by the Syrians.

Israel earlier had threatened counter-measures unless the four police were returned.

Sunday's incident occurred in the region where Israeli forces, retaliating for what they said was shooting at fishing boats, attacked Syrian gunposts last Dec. 11 and killed 56 Syrians.

Six Israelis were killed in that battle.

WAR COUNCIL

While the fighting flared near the Sea of Galilee, Premier Said El Chazal flew from Damascus to Cairo with Syrian Defence Minister Rashad Barmada and chief of staff Brig. Shawkat Shukeir. They planned talks with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser before an Arab League "war council" Tuesday.

King Saud of Saudi Arabia also is on his way to Cairo.

Political circles in Britain predicted the three Arab states would seek to draw Jordan into their mutual defence pact.

Hussein already has warned that Jordan would "work with the Arab world against all dangers threatening Arab countries and, particularly, against the Zionist danger."

Jordan radio broadcasts heard in Beirut, Lebanon, during the weekend revealed King Hussein fired his British commander-in-chief, Lt. Gen. Glubb, for refusing to reorganize Jordan's Arab Legion to meet a possible Israeli attack.

Hussein was cheered by nationalists today in his first public appearance since Glubb's firing.

THIS IS EDUCATION WEEK—VISIT YOUR SCHOOL

KNOW YOUR TEACHER

In the belief that parents of children attending schools in the Greater Victoria area are interested in knowing about personalities of the teachers who educate them, The Times continues a series on "Know Your Teacher." The articles will appear three times a week. The Teachers' Association is co-operating.

In charge of the physical education department at S. J. Willis Junior High School is Jack Fouracre, 2320 Heron, a PE specialist and boys' counsellor since 1950.

In his younger days in Victoria he was known as a member of Archie McKinnon's YMCA track team, for which he ran about seven years. He also played tennis for the "Y," later for B.C. Electric Tennis Club.

In addition to his regular PE duties at the school, Mr. Fouracre is director of the extra-curricular school sports program.

He was born in Yeovil, near Southampton, Eng., coming to Canada in 1906 when still very young to live on a family homestead near Lloydminster, Alta.

In 1912 the family moved to Cumberland, where Mr. Fouracre received his high school education and in 1924 he graduated from Victoria Normal School. For 20 years he taught at Nanaimo, then from 1944-50 at Central Junior High here where he was director of physical education.

At home his relaxations include gardening, carpentry and chess, and his third major interest is Metropolitan United Church, where he is general Sunday school superintendent.

He has four children: Betty, now Mrs. H. P. Harmsworth, 1018 Bank; Donald, 18, at Victoria College; Brian, 15, and Lois, 12, at Oak Bay Junior High.

Half of Sask. Budget For Health, Schools

No Tax Changes as CCF Government Paints Pre-Election Finance Picture

REGINA (CP) — Health and education will get nearly half the record election year expenditures of $87,147,000 estimated today in provincial treasurer C. M. Fines' 1956-57 Saskatchewan budget.

It contains no tax changes. The CCF government, expected to put 12 years of cautious socialism before voters in June, seeks a third of its $87,172,000 in revenue from a gasoline levy and the 3 per cent general sales tax.

Of the $23,793,390 outlay for public health, just over $11,000,000 will be used to meet the deficit from the $20,000,000 a year hospital care program.

Education's share will be $17,278,000, a boost from last year of $2,240,000. Most of the increase will go into larger school grants.

BIG ROAD PROGRAM
For highways, the government will spend more than it receives from user taxes. The total outlay will reach $28,360,000, an increase of $1,350,000 from the current fiscal year.

The figure includes only $7,725,000 from the budget's basic revenue account. But there is another $12,000,000 from capital account along with federal Trans-Canada Highway funds.

In all, estimated capital expenditures total $20,215,000.

"Resilience and diversity" in the Saskatchewan economy despite the drastic cuts in farm income were outlined by Mr. Fines, the dapper ex-teacher who brought down his 12th budget while wearing the same good luck green tie he wore for his first in 1945.

The "vigorous physical recovery" of farm production had been matched by a "steady expansion and increasing relative importance of the non-farm industries."

In 1945, these industries made up 22 per cent of the net value of commodity output in Saskatchewan. By 1955, this had increased to 40 per cent.

BIG INCREASE
In 1955, uranium production climbed to an estimated $14,000,000 and the total value of mineral output jumped by 23 per cent to some $84,000,000, compared with $24,000,000 about 10 years ago.

Oil production doubled in 1955, with total oil and gas wells set at 1,850 and proven crude reserves at 500,000,000 barrels. The oil industry was expected to spend in Saskatchewan this year about $95,500,000, up by $10,000,000 from 1955.

The treasurer said that never before has Saskatchewan "paid its way so well as it went, and at the same time paid off heavy debts incurred earlier."

In 12 years, the debt had been reduced by 107,000,000 to about $70,500,000 or, at $79.25 per capita, one of the lowest in Canada.

In addition, the province was setting aside in sinking funds each year 3 per cent of gross funded debt and was voting $4,000,000 annually for debt redemption.

"In 12 years the credit rating of the province has been raised from oblivion to where it is recognized today in the New York market as the equal of the large provinces of Ontario and Quebec."

For the debt retirement and sinking fund this year, Mr. Fines has estimated $6,150,000, about the same as in 1955-56.

Demos Turn Guns on Ike

Record Will Be Issue, Not President's Health

(From UP and AP Dispatches)

WASHINGTON — Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney said today Democrats should not play on the issue of President Eisenhower's health like a "stuck whistle" but should charge him with responsibility for his administration.

The Oklahoma Democrat told a reporter that many Democrats have always assumed that Mr. Eisenhower would be a one-term president. Hence, he said, the president "has enjoyed a political sanctuary such as no other American has had in history" while Democratic criticism has focused on his advisers.

Now that Mr. Eisenhower is a candidate for re-election, Monroney said, he must be charged with responsibility for such issues as the administration farm and defence programs, which are under heavy Democratic fire.

HARRIMAN TEES OFF
Two leading Democratic critics have accused President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles in particular of bungling U.S. foreign policy and playing into the hands of the Russians.

Governor Averell Harriman of New York, a former ambassador to Moscow, said Sunday night that many of the policies of Eisenhower and Dulles have "unwittingly helped the Soviet campaign" for world domination.

Senator William Fulbright of Arkansas, a member of the Senate foreign relations committee, called Dulles' recent optimistic reappraisal of Soviet policy "fantastic."

Harriman said in a New York speech that:

1. Dulles has aided Communist propaganda by identifying the U.S. with "militarism and colonialism."

2. Dulles recently gave "misinformation" and a "dangerous misinterpretation" of Soviet strategy to a Senate committee.

NO COUNTERACTION
Harriman said the Soviets made it clear in 1952 that they would rely on economic, political and psychological weapons in the cold war. He said the Eisenhower administration failed to take effective counteraction.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS FOR POPE — Pope Pius XII received birthday greetings from the "children of the world" in a ceremony unprecedented in the history of the Vatican. Gifts presented to the Pontiff on his 80th birthday included spring flowers, a white dove in a metal cage and huge white cake dotted with 80 candles. Above, a kindergarten child presents the Pope with a spray of lilacs. (NEA Radio-Telephoto.)

'MIRAGE OF FALSE PEACE'

Don't Be Fooled By Reds, Pope Warns

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Pope warned Sunday against the "mirage of false peace," which he said for "militant materialism" means only a truce.

The pontiff, now 80, spoke to ambassadors and ministers to the Holy See from 42 nations and gathered to give him birthday greetings.

Militant materialism is the term the Pope usually uses when referring to Communism. He told the diplomats militant materialism "does not lead and cannot lead to peace."

"Formulas like 'national unity' and 'social progress' must not be abused," the Pope said. "For militant materialism the time of peace is merely a time of truce—a precarious truce which awaits only the social and economic collapse of other peoples."

He said states which follow a policy based on respect of the liberty and dignity of man "preserve an internal solidarity against which militant materialism will break itself."

"It is in vain," he said, "that these forces of militant materialism try to make glitter before the eyes the mirage of a false peace, which purports to show the way in establishing economic relations and in the exchange of technical experiences."

"May those who heed such a voice do so with a prudence and reserve inspired by an acute care to maintain a spiritual order."

The pontiff also expressed his concern that the "second technical revolution" of the present age may imperil the spiritual and moral values of man and his society.

Cashier Swindled Bank to Assist Its Customers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — James Irving McWilliams, 45, formerly of Ottawa, was arrested Sunday and charged with falsifying records and diverting $134,000 at the Santa Monica Commercial and Savings Bank where he is assistant cashier.

The FBI said McWilliams, who moved to the United States with his family more than five years ago, admitted he forged the names of borrowers to notes and diverted the proceeds to four other bank customers to help them keep their businesses solvent.

He insisted, the FBI said, that he used none of the money himself and that he alone knew how it was obtained.

McWilliams was arraigned before U.S. commissioner Theodore Hocke and released on $5,000 bond.

CANADA TO IMPORT FOOD?

Farm Switch Seen by 1980

OTTAWA (CP) — A big upsurge in Canada's food needs during the next 25 years may force a halt to exports of most farm products, the 450,000-member Canadian Federation of Agriculture predicted today.

60% INCOME JUMP

24 Million In 25 Years?

OTTAWA (BUP) — Some 450,000 Canadian farmers took a 25-year plunge today when the Canadian Federation of Agriculture presented a brief on their behalf to the Royal commission into the nation's economic prospects.

They came up with these 1980 predictions:

More than 24,000,000 persons in Canada.

Annual personal income will be 60 per cent higher than the average of $1,170 in 1955.

Fifty-four per cent more food will be wanted.

A decline in butter consumption of two pounds per person.

A 78 per cent increased demand for meats.

About 25,600,000 hens and laying pullets will produce about 640,000,000 dozen eggs.

Milk production per cow will reach 7,000 pounds in 1980. About 3,500,000 cows—5.6 per cent more than at present—will be required for this production.

Nine per cent more potatoes will be needed for domestic consumption.

Domestic demand for wheat will amount to 17,000,000 bushels more than present requirements.

Vegetable consumption will increase 54 per cent to 2,798,796,000 pounds.

Women Refused Vote

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — The voters of the canton of Bern—men only—refused Sunday to grant voting rights to women. A proposed amendment to the Bern constitution was rejected, 62,971 to 52,929. Women do not have the right to vote in Switzerland.

It estimated that some 15,000,000 acres in the northern part of the prairies may have to be brought under cultivation to provide livestock men with more feed grains.

Even so, it told the Gordon economic commission in a 25,000-word brief, there may be barely enough beef to meet Canadian needs and some may have to be imported. But there will be plenty of pork and wheat even with a population forecast to increase by 50 per cent by 1980.

Along with beef, exports of eggs, poultry and oats and barley may also disappear as farmers are kept busy feeding the expanded Canadian population, the federation said.

DISTRIBUTION COSTS This will decrease the impact of overseas protective policies on Canada's economy, but that doesn't mean Canada should encourage high tariffs to protect her own manufacturers, the federation added.

Canada may gain rather than lose if she continues to make use of her expanding resources by exporting raw materials or semi-finished goods in exchange for goods or services from other countries.

The federation suggested there should be increased protection for farmers through continuation of price supports; establishment of interest-free "disaster" loans for producers hit by catastrophes; and a general expansion of federal farm credit legislation.

The federation said that while the average Canadian will increase consumption of most food products, there likely will be a drop in consumption of wheat flour, potatoes and butter. Some increase will be required because of the expanded population.

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — U.S. State Secretary Dulles flew into Karachi today to meet with the foreign ministers and military leaders of SEATO.

In a brief airport statement, Dulles said he is sure "great good will come" from the three-day conference of the eight-country Southeast Asia Treaty Organization Council, opening Tuesday.

Dulles' Big Three partners, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Britain and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, were due later today.

Following an opening public session in the Sind state assembly hall, the conference in closed meetings is expected to take up first the question of establishing a permanent secretariat and a headquarters—probably in Bangkok—for the organization.

Most-Wanted Criminal Nabbed Without Struggle in Calgary

CALGARY (CP) — Capture has toppled Harold Henrichon from the RCMP's list of most-wanted men less than a week after his name was added.

More than four years of fugitive's freedom ended Saturday for the 45-year-old chauffeur and mechanic when he was arrested in a Calgary rooming house. Wanted in Quebec for bank robbery, he was recognized almost as soon as his picture was published as a new addition to the most-wanted list.

Henrichon had been living here for three years under the name of Harold Wilcox. His picture was published in the Alberta Friday and Cpl. W. F. G. Perry of the RCMP criminal investigation branch said he was tipped off about noon Saturday by a person whose name he refused to disclose.

Four armed RCMP officers closed in on Henrichon at meal time and there was no struggle. Police said he readily admitted his identity when he was confronted with a copy of his picture.

Henrichon is wanted by Quebec provincial police in a $3,000 armed robbery of the National Canadian Bank at Ville LaSalle Oct. 4, 1951. Another man, Norman Joseph Christie, has been sentenced to 14 years for his part in the robbery. Police said Henrichon was living here with his wife and 11-year-old daughter but that they were not home at the time of the arrest. Arresting officers said he "didn't have any surplus money around."

HAROLD HENRICHON

"He had worked as a laborer here and frequently switched jobs. He had become fairly friendly with his neighbors."

The provincial drive started today, but the local campaign is delayed until the 15th so it won't conflict with the Red Cross appeal now under way.

The Provinces Hesitate

MOST PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENTS in Canada have long paid lip service to the theory of health insurance. But when they are offered hospital insurance as a first installment on a larger scheme they are suddenly reluctant to accept it. Only British Columbia so far has approved the health proposals of the Federal Government.

Does this mean that the project devised by the Federal Government (not without grave financial misgivings) is to be temporarily or permanently rejected? It is too early to say.

Ottawa promises to implement its scheme only if it is approved by provinces containing a majority of the population. The consent of Ontario is considered essential and the Frost Government, though an enthusiastic advocate of health insurance, seems to be hesitating about the federal offer.

No doubt poorer provinces are still more hesitant. For hospital insurance in the form proposed will involve new provincial taxes in all provinces except British Columbia and Saskatchewan, where hospitalization already is paid for by the state.

To be sure, the Federal Government would pay far more than half the total cost, at the expense of postponing substantial tax reductions indefinitely. But the provinces cannot escape some share of the burden and few of them will be anxious to levy the necessary taxes on their people. They must be given a reasonable time to make up their minds. If, in the end, they consider the present scheme too expensive they may be willing to consider a less costly project and one which is much favored in Ottawa.

Instead of insuring everyone, rich and poor, they might provide insurance against the financial disaster of long illnesses.

As Mr. Frost has suggested, the state would undertake to pay for all medical costs above a certain percentage of anyone's annual income. The citizen would pay the usual charges for hospitalization, doctors and drugs that occur annually in most families but he would be protected from those tragic and often ruinous expenses that sometimes hit a family without warning.

In British Columbia we have become used to a total insurance scheme covering hospital costs and may wonder why other provinces are not eager to follow our example. We have to remember, however, that few provinces enjoy our wealth and few governments can collect the per capita revenues now flowing into our treasury. The nation as a whole may feel compelled to undertake health insurance on a basis much more modest than ours.

Man and Issue

MR. ADLAI STEVENSON, WITH his usual gallantry, says that Mr. Eisenhower should be the Republican candidate this year since the issue of the presidential election is the present Government's record.

This is not quite an accurate description of the issue. As Mr. Stevenson well knows, the issue is not most Americans' minds is not the Government as a whole, nor the Republican Party's record, but the personality of the President which towers above all other issues.

Mr. Stevenson's misfortune is that he confronts in Mr. Eisenhower a candidate who has proved himself the most popular President in American history. It seems certain, indeed, by all tests of public opinion, that Mr. Eisenhower is more popular today than he was when he defeated Mr. Stevenson by a large majority in 1952.

Apart from that fact, Mr. Stevenson faces other serious obstacles. When he says that he will fight on the record of the Government he is, in the mind of most Americans, the Government's record on the whole has been good.

Or at least the condition of the nation—either through the Government's good management or good luck—is better materially than it has ever been. No nation in history has ever enjoyed the prosperity now prevailing in the United States.

Mr. Stevenson can certainly argue with truth that the Government, by and large, has followed the policies of the Democrats, under Roosevelt and Truman, after denouncing them in opposition.

It has adopted the Democrats' foreign policy, though Mr. Dulles' extraordinary series of threats and contradictions has often disguised the essentials of that policy. It has swallowed the entire New Deal and expanded it in the field of social services. It has used the monetary mechanisms established by Roosevelt to manage the economy with skill and success.

But if the Republican Party has actually repudiated and tried to forget what it said in opposition, the people will be inclined to forget this inconsistency when they are prosperous and at peace. They may even overlook Mr. Dulles' various balloon ascensions when they know that real policy is safely anchored to the White House in the hands of the President.

What concrete, vote-getting issues can Mr. Stevenson present to the electors?

He has the farm issue, of course, and he is working hard at it. For a man of his stature and political genius he has shown a surprising irresponsibility in proposing to guarantee the farmers fixed prices at 90 per cent of parity when he knows that this policy can only worsen the problem of surpluses.

Various other relatively minor issues have arisen, most of them sectional and none large enough in itself to support a national campaign. As Mr. Stevenson says, the real issue is the Government's total record; and as he does not say, the people will vote mainly for or against a President who overshadows all issues.

If the President is re-elected, as seems likely, the American political system, unlike the British system, leaves no place for a great man like Mr. Stevenson.

Under a parliamentary system he would become leader of the opposition in the legislature and, in due time, no doubt, leader of the Government. Under the American system of divided powers he becomes only a private citizen and his services are lost to the nation—a tragic waste of talent.

The Worker's Real Wage

THE ECONOMIC PROBLEMS facing Mr. Macmillan, chancellor of the British exchequer, are massive and complex but they can be condensed in a few simple figures.

The British labor unions demand, at the beginning of every year and customarily receive a wage increase of about 7 or 8 per cent. But the productivity of labor—the amount of goods produced by the average worker—has been rising only by about 4 or 5 per cent annually. The result is inevitable—a rise in prices.

There need be no rise, of course, if productivity keeps abreast of wages—that is to say, if the unions demanded only the extra goods which they actually produce. Actually they are demanding, in the form of money wages, goods that simply do not exist. And therefore their higher wages must be translated into higher costs which the worker pays in the form of prices.

It is this familiar danger of inflation which Mr. Macmillan is resolved to cure. How can it be cured? How can the government prevent ever-increasing prices at home and the loss of markets abroad? How can it compel the British people to use a little less goods in order that more may be exported to pay for essential imports?

Three methods are open to the chancellor.

He has already enforced one of them by what are called fiscal measures. He has tried to dampen down the appetite for goods by raising interest rates and making money harder to borrow. The other method, as advocated by the Labor Party, is a return to direct controls over imports and prices—a retreat to some version of wartime rationing. The Government rejects such a retreat as unthinkable. A third possibility remains and Mr. Macmillan apparently is exploring it.

It is too late now to prevent this year's usual rise in wages of 7 or 8 per cent, but Mr. Macmillan, using the magic word "co-operation," will try to persuade the unions, at their summer conferences, to tone down their demands in 1957.

In all his recent speeches he has been arguing that increased wages, when they cannot provide increased goods, mean nothing to the worker and can mean only higher prices. He is trying to persuade the unions that their true interest is not the money wage but what the economists call the "real wage"—that is, the amount of goods that the worker's labor will actually buy.

If Mr. Macmillan can teach that lesson he may properly regard himself as the greatest economic teacher in the free world. No other national treasurer, so far as we know, has ever been able to teach it. The real wage is the forgotten factor in modern economics, as the person forced to live on a fixed income is the forgotten man.

The Jockey Decides to Run

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

I HAVE an embarrassment of riches to report to you today. To begin with, I must tell you about a health drink being plugged in a Canadian newspaper. To a glass of milk you add half a banana, or more. You also add six teaspoons of various things such as yeast, honey, soy flour, and wheat germ. Then you drink it. It seems a queer use of the verb "to drink." Sure, it is a form of eating, not drinking. Quite a low form.

Next, I must report a couple of Mr. John Fisher's nifty notions for placating those stern and critical inspectors, the tourists. Mr. Fisher is the human dynamo of the Canadian Tourist Association. He recently addressed a luncheon given by the Vancouver Tourist Association, and among other suggestions for soothing foreign visitors, he is quoted as saying that we might try plying the tourists with chowder and with salmon snacks when they first step out of their aircraft.

Shower 'em with fish, that's what. To which the tourists might well reply "Odsfisk!" Another constructive idea was to have us construct some wooden nickels. I don't know what reply there would be to this. "Odsnickels!"

If I had been a tourist, I'd have been more than pleased to see a Stop sign. I saw last week where a small road joined a big one. Originally the sign just said STOP. But some child had added a few words to it, making it read: Do not nobody STOP somebody writing this. Thank you.

Far be it from me to stop somebody writing that, thank you. And speakin' of travel, a chum of mine was living in Santa Barbara, where the citizens have perhaps more individuality than the world's general average (no difficult feat). He lived next door to a very happy-go-lucky family. This family had taken the hinges off the lid of the grand piano, to use them somewhere else or to lend to the needy or whatever one does with such hinges, at a pinch. They were the sort of family that simply doesn't care where its next piano hinge is coming from... hand-to-mouth. In fact, they forgot completely that they were in chronic need of a new set of hinges. So they forgot to tell the piano tuner, when next he turned up. As a result of being left in the dark that way, he got a big surprise when he flipped up the lid to begin his labors. The lid simply kept on travelling. It went shooting off the far side of the piano and out through the lovely picture-window and into the garden. This constituted a Grand Slam.

MORE news? Certainly. I have found that an Anglo-Saxon poet was called a scop. So that any family which luckily finds itself, without a bard in the home can be called scop-free. A woman who is wise enough to break her engagement to a poet has also got off scop-free. Maugham says it is foolish to marry a poet. He is thinking about his own reactions, not yours. That sounds like any human to me, but maybe poets are even worse.

Scop, by the way, was a mild form of the word skald, which not only meant a bard but was the same word as scold. Poets are terrible scolds. Speaking of these matters, Robert Graves says: poets are called scolds because they talk too much and too loud. It is true about their habits, so I hate to ruin his joke by looking up the facts and discovering that the true history of the words is the other way round: poets are not called scolds because they nag, they do nag all right; no, nags are called scolds because they sound too much like poets.

AND another thing I ran across last week was this: since 1950, the high schools of B.C. have given little or no instruction in the facts of sex. The policy since 1950 has been this: the information is available at the schools but it must not be used unless there is a local demand among the parents. And since the parents know nothing of this set-up, there is no demand! What a system. Everybody happy. Incidentally, that's one thing your local PTA can do.

It can check on this situation (which, it will find, is as I have said). It can then decide that a little instruction at school can't harm the kid who gets it at home, and can only do good to the kid who does NOT get any at home. It can then petition the department... which, believe me, is anxious to oblige and is only waiting for the word from local parents who have not been TOLD that the initiative rests with them.

NOR have I come nearly to the end of the things I must report to you today. I would need a whole page for them all. For instance, I should tell you about my weekly char, who has revealed that at a house along the road she goes once a week to work, and this work consists of playing cribbage with the housewife at a dollar an hour. And I should tell you about the lovely phrase I heard a university professor use. He regretted the encroachment of the schools upon the rights and duties of the home, and then added "But it must be necessary or it would not occur."

Thus, he himself made his own fitness the central issue of the campaign. The argument to which he yielded was that there are compelling reasons why he should head the Republican ticket. There is no other Republican who has a good prospect of winning the election, none who can keep the party reasonably united on a policy of moderation, none who can keep the country united on the issues of war and peace.

TIME NEEDED Four years, as he said Wednesday evening, have not been long enough to reorganize and modernize the party. A defeat this year would precipitate a disastrous internal struggle between the Taft and the Dewey wings of the party. If, therefore, Eisenhower himself does not lead the party to victory, these four Republican years will have been no more than a brief interlude in that period of the Democratic Party's supremacy which began in 1933.

This in effect, is the argument which has prevailed with the President. He himself dislikes the word, but the argument is in fact that he is the indispensable man. And so far as the safety of the nation depends upon having a Republican president, Eisenhower is indeed the indispensable man.

This is a powerful argument. But the President did not yield to it without a struggle of conscience. He did not hide his feelings on Wednesday evening and that was why, though he made himself available, the burden of his talk was that he could not and would not be able to do. It was the talk of a man who has

STRUGGLE IN THE NIGHT

Free men's desire for truth can not be killed. By darkness, silence, tyranny or lack of sleep. Or accusations of conspiracy ungrounded. Nor by the obedient claque will it be stifled. While crowded galleries the night long vigil keep, By rumour, doubt, suspicion and distrust confounded; Ere dawn they hear a free man's stirring cry: "In the name of democracy, what are you hiding? Why?"

THANKS

We are pleased to advise you that at the annual Meeting of our Association held on Feb. 20 last, by a motion of thanks acknowledgment was made of the splendid manner in which your paper has covered our meetings. Our thanks are extended to you for the faithful coverage and the courteous treatment we have received at all times from members of your staff.

CORRECT SPEECH

I read Hilda G. Howard's letter in your issue of 28th inst. entitled "As She Is Spoke" with much amusement. The English (I) one sometimes hears over the radio is certainly terrific and the French accent worse—a bilingual country too!

There is only one way to speak a language and that is correctly, so why not engage someone who can?

SASKATCHEWAN FINANCING

I would appreciate the space to answer a letter entitled "Borrowed Money" in the Times, Feb. 26 from a Mrs. E. Francis.

The figures I have at hand are only complete up to 1954. However I find that:

In 1944 when the CCF came to power the Provincial Debt stood at an all time high of $177,323,000.00 with only $23,919,000 in Sinking Funds.

In 1954 the Provincial Treasurer was able to announce in his Budget Speech that during 1953 a further reduction in the Provincial debt of $7,150,000 had been made, bringing the total reduction since 1944 to $87,000,000 a drop of approximately 50 per cent.

As for borrowing, every government in Canada has and does borrow money. If I am not mistaken our Social Credit government last year borrowed in the neighborhood of $40,000,000.

It is interesting to note that on April 1, 1954 Saskatchewan borrowed $10,000,000 for self-liquidating projects (power and telephones) at an interest rate of 3.4%. That rate is the lowest obtained in Canadian Funds by any Federal or Provincial Government since 1950. The above is proof of a first class credit rating which is not given to people or governments who are in financial difficulties.

THE CLUB IS GRATEFUL

On behalf of the Victoria Chess Club I would like to convey to you the sincere thanks and appreciation which is shared by all our members for the splendid Reshevsky exhibition sponsored and staged by you on Feb. 14.

There can be no doubt that this simultaneous match was a resounding success in every way, a great tribute to Victoria and a great stimulus to chess interest in this city. The enthusiasm which we all feel about the calibre of your arrangements has already been adequately voiced by Mr. Reshevsky himself who was quite unrestrained in his words of praise.

In addition to the expenditure in time and money by your generous and civic-minded publication, we would like to thank you also for the thoughtful co-operation shown by your staff throughout the preliminary period of arrangements, as well as during the exhibition itself. Thank you also for your valued gift of the display boards.

Perhaps you would be kind enough to convey these sentiments to the members of your staff and in particular to Mr. Mack, Mr. Palmer, Mr. Rayner and Mr. Strickland.

SIMON MARINKER, M.D.,
President,
Victoria Chess Club.

"STRANGEST" GOVERNMENT

Much water has passed under the political bridge since the first Coalition was formed in British Columbia. It could be said that the merger seeded a strange—but subtle—form of political thought.

Perhaps at the next election the "strangest" government that the electorate of British Columbia has ever adopted will "unmask" itself.

Students of the Social Credit theory know full well that the Bennett regime is out in the wilderness utterly, as far as that theory is concerned. It made a grave mistake in adopting the label; it would have done much better to have resuscitated his own old party, to which the first claimed allegiance before his own mind got confused with the political traffic signals. The tendency of Mr. Bennett's disciples—or could it be his leaders?—to do their utmost to lead the old Liberal Party to the political slaughterhouse is to say the least amusing, and one feels utterly inefficacious.

The Conservatives had their chance to take over the government when their leader, Mr. Maitland, chose to take them into what one supposes he imagined to be the "green pastures" that the coalition had previously been enjoying.

It must be puzzling to many minds the way the CCF party are playing charades in their clinging vine attitude to the so-called Social Crediters.

The people of British Columbia will soon have the chance in the coming election to decide whether they wish their province to be controlled by an hierarchical impregnated "culture" or return to responsible government, through parliament, which is the "little" peoples' only hope for justice.

THINK IT OVER

It would be well for those who endorse Mrs. Arsen's statements concerning cancer to separate their minds from politics, for here we have a woman defying all the findings of stupendous research, discrediting the medical profession all over the world, thrusting false, unproven hope at the dying, and whether any of us wish it or not, halting the progress of health foundations dedicated to the eradication of cancer everywhere.

LOST GROUND

Only a murmur of protest has stirred the apathy of Victorians to the loss of another open space, which has been used as and should remain as a playground or park.

Our city may feel that a handsome profit has been made by selling the property on Burnside Road, so long used for recreation. Are dividends always to be measured in terms of money?

Eisenhower---A Big Gamble.

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

THE President has had such a hard time making up his mind that, as he said on Wednesday, he was still debating the question on Tuesday. He has made it abundantly clear that the question for him has been whether he could conscientiously say that within his physical limitations he could carry the burden of the Presidency for another five years.

In the end what he did was to let himself be persuaded by his friends, and with the approval of doctors, that he should not say no. But because he himself had such serious doubts, he accepted the view that after telling the truth about his condition he could leave the final decision to a referendum of the voters.

Thus, he himself made his own fitness the central issue of the campaign.

The argument to which he yielded was that there are compelling reasons why he should head the Republican ticket. There is no other Republican who has a good prospect of winning the election, none who can keep the party reasonably united on a policy of moderation, none who can keep the country united on the issues of war and peace.

TIME NEEDED

Four years, as he said Wednesday evening, have not been long enough to reorganize and modernize the party. A defeat this year would precipitate a disastrous internal struggle between the Taft and the Dewey wings of the party. If, therefore, Eisenhower himself does not lead the party to victory, these four Republican years will have been no more than a brief interlude in that period of the Democratic Party's supremacy which began in 1933.

This in effect, is the argument which has prevailed with the President. He himself dislikes the word, but the argument is in fact that he is the indispensable man. And so far as the safety of the nation depends upon having a Republican president, Eisenhower is indeed the indispensable man.

This is a powerful argument. But the President did not yield to it without a struggle of conscience. He did not hide his feelings on Wednesday evening and that was why, though he made himself available, the burden of his talk was that he could not and would not be able to do. It was the talk of a man who has managed to say yes but is still full of doubt and misgiving.

This was unavoidable. Given his age and his illness, the one thing the doctors cannot promise him is that he may count on having the extraordinary energies required by the President of the United States. They may tell him, as they have told him, that by following a regime the risks of death or disability are no greater in his case than for any other man. But the real risk is that of a diminishing chief executive in what promises to be increasingly difficult and trying days. Five years are a long time at the President's age, and under our system of government there is no way to delegate the critical responsibilities of the office. When the President is diminished, there is no one who can anticipate, seize, and master the great issues. Then the basic line of policy is to muddle through somehow.

UNCERTAINTY REMAINS

Uncertainty about the Presidency has bedeviled all our affairs for several months. The uncertainty has not been cleared away. The debate which has been going on inside the White House and in the President's mind is now to become a public debate in an election year. The people are to decide the most unusual question which has ever been put to a democracy. It is a big gamble. The risks of the gamble could be somewhat reduced if the Congress will clarify the Constitutional puzzle of what happens if the President is disabled or seriously diminished. The risks would be much less, too, if there were a vice-president who can command the same kind of popular confidence as does the President.

But in any case the gamble remains and the stakes are very high.

NOT NEW BUT—
When I left behind the sumptuous carpets and the twinkling candelabra—as a matter of fact while I was unchaining my faithful bicycle from some pained Mayfair railings—I heard the comment of a departing fellow observer. "All very feminine and pretty," she said. "But nothing really new." Well, maybe she was right. But I added to myself: "And, thank goodness, nothing really hideous." Ruth Drew, speaking about "Some Current London Fashion Shows."

Mary Jane Smith

THE notice in the paper simply said, "On Feb. 25th, Mary Jane Smith in her 72nd year, etc., etc."

But that wasn't the whole story. Not by any means. For in her life, Mary Jane Smith had been a score of different people.

She began as "Richard and Margaret Brown's darling little baby." She was the first grandchild in the family, and her arrival caused a ripple of excitement among a host of relatives scattered throughout an Empire on which, in those days, the sun never set.

For five years she was "The Brown's little girl." And her right there was none to dispute. Then a little brother arrived, and she became "David's Older Sister."

After she passed out of the spotty, gawky adolescent phase, she was "the pretty Brown girl. The one with the lovely eyes."

In 1905, she stopped being Mary Brown and became Mrs. Robert Smith. "Young Mrs. Smith" she was then, to distinguish her from Robert's mother.

With her marriage, she became "my sister-in-law" to Robert's four older brothers and sisters, and "Aunt Mary" to their children.

When she and Robert emigrated to B.C., she became "the one who's gone to Canada, my dear."

By this time, she'd almost forgotten the Mary Brown she used to be. She was definitely Mrs. Smith, Robert's wife, and Bobbie's mother.

Often, in the years that followed, people meeting her, said, "Oh, I know who you are. You're Bobbie's mother." Usually, they said it with a smile because Bobbie was a cheerful, lively child. But she knew that old Colonel Thingummy down the road thought of her as "that blankety blank Bobbie Smith's mother."

Ruth

(And what possessed Bobbie to steal those peaches, she simply didn't know!)

For several years, she was "the very energetic secretary of our gardening club." And once, at a meeting, she heard herself described as "the Mrs. Smith with the wonderful show of anemones."

To her butcher, she was the Mrs. Smith who liked a good leg of lamb.

To the woman in the lending library, she was the Mrs. Smith who liked books with an English background.

When Bobbie reached high school age, he became Bob and she was the Mrs. Smith who worried because he didn't work as she said his father thought he should.

In her middle forties, she was sure that a certain surgeon didn't think of her as Mrs. Smith at all, but as "that interesting gall bladder operation."

And, in the feverish days that followed, the perky young nurse from Saskatchewan thought of her as "the patient in 204."

A certain dentist thought of her as "the Mrs. Smith with the very difficult mouth for dentures."

After the children grew up and left, she and Robert felt the family home was too big. So they moved into an apartment block and she was "Mrs. Robert Smith in Suite No. 6."

Robert's death from a heart attack changed her into "Mrs. Mary Jane Smith."

She was "Grannie" too, by that time, and sometimes, when she was tired, she used to get the generations and the people mixed.

And this is clumsily done, I guess, but it fascinates me to think how all of us are really so many different people.

Perhaps it applies more to women than to men. Perhaps it's to do with losing our maiden names when we marry. Or is it just that women throw themselves more completely into the roles they have to play? "Emotionally involved," to use a phrase that makes me sick.

But sometimes, just sometimes, isn't it lovely to be nothing but oneself?

Use Smaller Pots For Slow Growers

While we are waiting for indoor sown seed to germinate, there is a chance to pop up the rooted cuttings which were set during the last two months.

These may be fuchsia, hebe, geranium, various pelargonium (including bedding geranium) or any of the subjects needed for summer specimen plants in tubs, window boxes or patios.

Clean pots are necessary, both to reduce the possibility of fungus disease, and for ease of handling when it comes to removing the plant from the pot.

Do not use large pots at first for plants which you know to be rather slow growers. There is the chance of the roots rotting in too large an amount of moist soil. The health of the plant is maintained more readily when it is potted on into a size larger just as soon as the smaller pot becomes filled with roots.

Most gardeners soon find out the easiest method of removing a plant from its pot. Personally, it is one of my early memories. First, see that the soil is reasonably moist, then place the first and second fingers of the left hand stiffly on either side of the plant stem, resting the remainder of the left hand on the soil and rim of the pot. With the right hand, invert the pot on the palm of the left hand, and tap the free edge of the pot sharply on a firm table edge.

The entire contents of the pot with roots undisturbed are now resting in the left hand, ready for inspection or to be placed in the prepared larger pot.

Socialists of 14 Nations Reject Communist Alignment

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP)—Socialists of 14 western nations Sunday firmly rejected any form of political co-operation with communist "parties of dictatorship."

Ignoring the hand stretched out by Soviet Communist boss Nikita S. Khrushchev in Moscow recently, the Socialists said they would have no part in "popular fronts" with the Communists.

They invited the Communists to offer "adequate proof of a genuine change in the principles and policies of communist dictatorship, and, therefore, provide no grounds for departing from the position taken up by democratic socialism, which firmly rejects any united front or any other form of political co-operation with the parties of dictatorship."

PROOF INADEQUATE

Text of the statement: "The council of the Socialist International, having discussed the international situation and the questions of relations with other political forces, states that:

"The changes of communist tactics which emerged at the recent party congress of the Communist party of the Soviet Union are not adequate proof of a genuine change in the principles and policies of communist dictatorship, and, therefore, provide no grounds for departing from the position taken up by democratic socialism, which firmly rejects any united front or any other form of political co-operation with the parties of dictatorship."

YOUR HEALTH

No Cure for Scattered Cancer

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

I am constantly getting letters from unhappy people who, in their desperation, are willing to go to anyone—even to someone who they know is a notorious quack. They will give him several hundred dollars in advance for a so-called guaranteed cure. They will give him their savings, even when they have been told that the man has been prosecuted and exposed by the U.S. food and drug administration. Government experts told him that his supposed medicine is of no value, and hence must not be labeled any more as a cure for cancer.

Dr. Alvarez

Usually, in these cases, at his court trial, a quack has had to admit under oath that he never studied medicine. Sometimes he has had to admit that his experience has been mainly in the field of swindling and that he had done some time in jail. In some cases the government chemists have testified that his "medicine" was just tap water.

That is all there is in the "cancer cure" now most commonly used throughout the United States by shady characters. Interestingly, under pressure from the government authorities, the promoter of this "cure" recently fled overseas. Last week two men told me they were planning to take all their savings to buy some of this water for the treatment of their very sick wives.

Why do people throw their money away after they have been warned repeatedly? I know why they do it; because people write to scold me for not using this column to boost the work of some quack. They have the crazy idea that if a cure for scattered cancer were to be found by some layman we doctors would not only be too jealous and too pigheaded to use it, but we would not investigate it; we would not know how wonderful it was, and worse yet, through the supposed power of our national medical association we would prevent its use throughout the U.S. and the world!

I cannot imagine a sillier idea, because the day after a cure for scattered cancer is found everyone in the world will know about it; and within a few weeks doctors in every corner of the civilized world will be using it.

No one would want to interfere with its use, and no one, not even a powerful government, could keep its people from using it; no one could keep the great drug houses from making it in ton-tons.

When, as so commonly happens, a man tells me that if a great medicine were to be found by a layman we doctors would not use it, I tell him what is true: That we have always obtained most of our drugs from laymen. Let us take for example the sulfa drugs. The first one was discovered by a chemist in Europe. The day we doctors learned of its great usefulness, we began to prescribe it, and soon physicians all over the world started begging for it. Similarly, penicillin was discovered, not by a practising physician, but by a bacteriologist working in his little laboratory. As soon as the substance was purified and tested and made available commercially, every physician in the world was prescribing it, and it had to be made in huge quantities.

Recently a drug manufacturer heard that there was something curative in a snake root remedy used for centuries in India. His chemists worked with it until they got out the essential substance, and within a few months this was being used by doctors all over the world as one of their favorite drugs. I could go on to show how most of the drugs we physicians have grabbed onto quickly in the past have come from men who never practised medicine.

Another crazy idea people have is that if a quack somewhere were to discover a cure for cancer it might be years before it was investigated by the medical profession or by the government and recognized as valuable. This again, is silly. When sick people start flocking to a quack or anyone anywhere, several investigators for different medical and government groups go immediately to see if the fellow has anything. For instance, years ago when two perfectly honest and reputable American doctors thought they had found the cure for cancer, and started giving it for nothing to the people who came by the hundreds to consult them, the Mayo Clinic sent one of the ablest members of its staff to see if the new medicine was curing anyone. In a few weeks he returned sadly to say that he had not seen any cures. Soon after that, the crowds of patients also became discouraged and went home.

U.S. health authorities have long had a standing award to be given to anyone who will show them he has a cure for cancer.

Too Much Emphasis on Price Threatens Quality of Merchandise Says Retailer

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Business Editor

Walter M. Murray, president of the Canadian Retail Federation, sees a danger that the growing emphasis on price rather than the intrinsic value of goods will result in a depreciation of standards.

"Good value is not always represented by cheap prices," Mr. Murray told the federation's annual conference in Montreal today.

"There is a point to which production costs can be reduced through improvement in manufacturing techniques and the economies of unit volume," he said.

"Beyond that point reductions in price can come only from the profit of the retailer or the producer or from a depreciation of standards."

In a brief to the Gordon economic commission in Ottawa today the Meat Packers Council said:

"Meat packers may have to increase their profit margins if they are to provide more services for consumers in the future."

(A PLUS) "I'LL CRY TOMORROW" (Royal)—This is the story of Lillian Roth who veteran movie-goers will remember as a gay young singer who used to cavort about in musicals, usually with Stanley Lupino, some 20 odd years ago.

This is the story of what happens when a young girl is pushed too hard up the ladder of success at too tender an age. Youth is missed and, later on, something cracks.

In Lillian Roth's case the first dent in her armor came when she had her foot in big-time's doorway. Her first love died. To forget her grief she turned to alcohol, at first only as a sedative. Later it became a necessity.

ONE MORNING SHE wakes up after an all-night binge to find she is married to a man she scarcely knows.

They have nothing in common except liquor. Next she marries another lush who woos her with "let's go on the wagon together."

This doesn't work out either. Their short trip together is performed to "Coming Through the Rye." Somewhere about this time bar-keepers recognize her for what she is, an alcoholic. As is usually the case, the lush is the last one to learn the truth.

From there on in Lillian Roth is on a toboggan, or possibly a more appropriate vehicle for her decline would be a shoot-the-chute. She wanders the alleys and byways, seeking out the bars. She pawns everything payable to provide money for liquor. In a fit of depression she rents a room in a fifth rate hotel with the idea of jumping to her death from the window. But her courage fails her.

INSTEAD SHE WALKS into the club rooms of Alcoholics Anonymous and there begins her courageous comeback which everyone has learned about in her book "I'll Cry Tomorrow" and via Ralph Edwards' TV show, "This Is Your Life."

As Lillian Roth, Academy Award nominee Susan Hayward is little short of terrific. Her role is an exciting one. She must portray the young, lovable Lillian, the lush and then the reprieved and retrieved. All these things she does faithfully. One scene where she joins in the drunken laughter of a group of skid row bums who have doctored her drink is unforgettable as it is pitiable. One can cry for her, laugh with her, and above all, understand her for she plays her many facets with a restrained deftness.

It must be obvious to the most casual theatre-goer that the Academy Award race is between Miss Hayward and Miss Anna Magnani of "The Rose Tattoo." And a very close race it should be.

ALTHOUGH EVERYONE is good in MGM's "I'll Cry Tomorrow," one must pay special respect to Jo Van Fleet, who plays Lillian Roth's mother. She brings to the play a sense of "life" that even the star can't match. That she has been nominated under the "best supporting" heading for an Oscar is only right. She is an actress of extraordinarily high calibre.

Theatre-goers, to enjoy "I'll Cry Tomorrow," will have to have stout stomachs for harsh liquor. For there is nothing gentle about the story. Its sadness sometimes borders upon the morbid. When the curtain rings down there will be some who will feel as wrung out and as apathetic as though they had a lost weekend themselves.

HISTORY OF HANGING

Does Insanity Deserve Death?

In view of the public interest in the recent vote to abolish the death penalty in Britain, and the importance of the report of the Canadian committee on capital punishment, which will be brought down in the Commons during this session, the Victoria Daily Times is publishing a series of articles by noted writer Arthur Koestler. They are condensed from his forthcoming book, "Reflections on Hanging."

By ARTHUR KOESTLER

Although the McNaughton Rules were established way back in the year when Joseph Smith authorized polygamy for the Mormons, they represented a regression into a still remoter past. In 1800, a man called James Hatfield, who suffered from the delusion that the salvation of the world depended on him, made an attempt on the life of George III. He was acquitted on the grounds of insanity after a famous speech for the defence by Lord Erskine, the gist of which was that a man governed by delusions is insane and therefore irresponsible, "even though reason is not wholly dethroned."

Erskine knew what the oracles will never learn, because it would disrupt their whole artificial universe: that human nature is in its core, governed by emotion and impulse, passion and belief, covered by a relatively new and precarious crust of reasoning which is liable to crack when the inner pressure becomes too great; and that once the crack has occurred, reason loses its control, regardless of whether its ability to distinguish between right and wrong survives or not. The slang expressions "crackbrain" and "crackpot" convey a clear understanding of the indivisible nature of the human mind, which the law denies by the preposterous assumption that if X% of the reasoning faculty is destroyed, the remaining Y% continues to function as if nothing had happened, and enable a man to control his impulses as if he were normal.

Established Famous Precedent

Erskine's view of insanity, species, "before it was realised which led to the acquittal of Hatfield in 1800, was not always accepted in subsequent cases, yet it was a famous precedent, and the acquittal of McNaughton, an explanation, and at least partial excuse, for his actions. Nor was it realized that childhood, education and social conditioning are largely responsible in forming character, including criminal character. Yet even at that date they were an anachronism, condemned by the majority of the medical, and the more enlightened of the legal profession.

In 1864, a meeting of the Medical Officers of Hospitals and Asylums for the Insane, and who was better qualified to talk about insanity?—passed the following resolution: "That so much of the legal test of the mental condition of an alleged criminal lunatic as renders him a responsible agent, because he knows the difference between right and wrong, is inconsistent with the fact, well known to every member of this meeting, that the power of distinguishing between right and wrong exists very frequently among those who are undoubtedly insane and is often associated with dangerous and uncontrollable delusions. But the judges opposed any reform."

Judges Opposed Amendment

Ten years later, the greatest legal authority of the time, Stephen, tried to amend the McNaughton Rules, but the judges opposed any amendment. It was on this occasion that Lord Bramwell made his famous remark that the Rule "lays down such a definition of madness that nobody is hardly ever really mad enough to be within it, yet is a logical and good definition."

In 1922, a committee was again set up under the chairmanship of Lord Justice Atkin to consider the matter. The committee heard the views of the British Medical Association and of the Royal Medical Psychological Association and accepted their proposals for amending the Rules in such a way that a man should not be held criminally responsible if, owing to mental disease, he was acting under an irresistible impulse. The Government refused, as usual, to accept the recommendations of the committee it had appointed, and referred the matter to the judges. Ten out of twelve High Court judges consulted voted against the reform, and the House of Lords, as usual, obliged by throwing the Bill out. Lord Chief Justice Hewart referred in the debate to the proposed amendment as "the fantastic theory of uncontrollable impulse which, if it were to become part of our criminal law, would be merely subversive."

Another quarter-century later the Royal Commission of 1948-53 proposed that the McNaughton Rules should be abrogated or amended. Again nothing happened; in the Parliamentary debate last February the Attorney-General simply said that "it would be extremely difficult to find one rule which improves upon the McNaughton Rules," and the Home Secretary informed the House that "no advantage would be gained by disturbing the present position and that it is better to leave matters as they are." Matters as they are may be summed up by the following quotation from the Royal Commission Report: "If a mentally defective person... is charged with murder, and the jury are satisfied that he committed the act charged, they have no option but to convict him of murder and the judge is obliged to pronounce the sentence of death."

Pregnant, Yes! Indisposed, No! Retorts Barred Singer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—We're trying to be as gracious as we can, we're trying to be as we can," Miss Lane's husband-accomplice said to reporters here Saturday night and didn't, isn't too nist is Samuel Krachmalnick, pleaded with this city.

"At Indianapolis" she snapped, "motherhood is a crime." Western Germany's first atomic reactor is being built near the Rhine River at Karlsruhe.

The promoters said her appearance was cancelled because Miss Lane was "indisposed." "Indisposed!" retorted the singer. "I'm pregnant, and I'm certainly not ashamed of it."

"I don't see why, because I am to be a mother, I should be barred from the stage if I'm willing to sing. And I don't see why people should be offended. They weren't in 20 other cities."

Robert B. Ellsworth, an official of the organization sponsoring her appearance, replied: "We consider her indisposed."

The safest place on the road is in one of these fleet beauties... the cars of the Forward Look!

That's because safety is nothing new to us. Building safe cars always has been one of Chrysler Corporation's prime objectives. As long ago as 1925, for example, Chrysler introduced hydraulic 4-wheel brakes, a feature since adopted industry-wide.

And every year Chrysler Corporation has consistently pioneered more and better safety features. Now, the cars of the Forward Look again lead the way with new push-button controls for PowerFlite automatic transmission, LifeGuard door latches, centre-plane brakes, and many more features described below. Thus the new is joined with the old to bring you an outstanding achievement in peace-of-mind driving.

Visit your Chrysler-Plymouth-Fargo or Dodge-De Soto dealer soon. Drive the cars of the Forward Look. And be assured, they're the safest you'll find on the road!

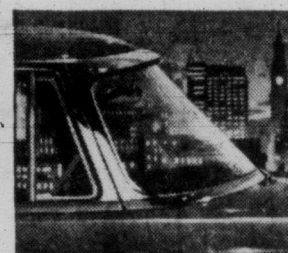

Safety-Rim Wheels mean safer driving in Forward Look cars! Special rim design helps keep tire on rim in case of blowout... helps you bring the car to a safe, controlled stop. Tubeless tires give further protection against blowout.

New Sealed-Beam Headlights make nighttime travel safer! Newly designed sealed-beam headlights now illuminate an additional 80 feet in front of the car! Assure better visibility, too, in the event of rain, fog, or snow.

Electrically driven windshield wipers offer maximum bad-weather safety, clear more of the big Forward Look wrap-around windshield. Unlike vacuum wipers, electric wipers do not slow up when you accelerate or climb hills.

Only true wrap-around windshield. Wraps around at top and bottom to give you maximum visibility at eye level. In the cars of the Forward Look you get the best and safest front and side visibility of any windshield in the industry.

Search Under Way For Oil Deposits

Red Streamers Mark Locations For Gravity Strength Checks

A geophysical survey is now under way on Vancouver Island to determine possible oil deposits.

Little League Baseball Set For Chemainus

CHEMAINUS—Little League baseball will make its debut here this spring.

The Rotary Club, Kinsmen, Canadian Legion and the Community Centre will each sponsor a team in the proposed league. Plans call for the youngsters to play their games in the park adjacent to the Community Centre.

Sponsors will supply caps and sweaters and each will provide a team manager and coach. Equipment will be supplied by the Community Centre.

The Community Centre will continue to sponsor a juvenile and senior baseball team while senior baseball will be turned over to a separate baseball committee.

Chemainus Firemen Taking CD Course

CHEMAINUS—Members of the Volunteer Fire Department are half way through a six-week course in firefighting and civil defence. The course is being conducted by Al Best and Bob Solly, of the provincial fire marshal's office, Vancouver. The course includes lectures, films and practical work.

Alan Thornett Wins Island Boxing Cup

CHEMAINUS—Alan Thornett has been named the outstanding Chemainus boxer of the year. At a recent boxing card, the 64-pound fighter was presented with the Dyer-Jameson Perpetual trophy.

Only physical signs of the survey to date are red streamers tied to power poles along the Trans-Canada Highway and on Saanich Peninsula.

They were placed by R. H. Ball of Tulsa, Oklahoma, but it is not known what interests he represents. Experts in the geological field say, however, that erection of oil derricks in the near future is "highly unlikely."

A similar survey was made about 10 years ago. The survey is being made with a gravimeter, a device that indicates changes in the force of gravity at the earth's surface, which in turn give an indication of rock formations underground.

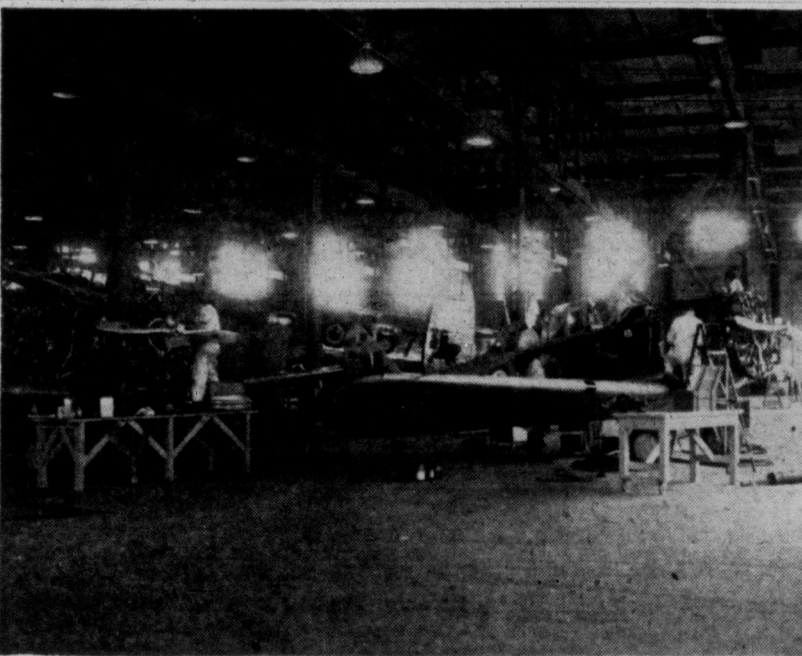

In practice, a line survey is made first, and markers are placed every half-mile. A second survey, using a gravimeter, makes its tests at the locations marked. If the route along the high-ways is encouraging, then it is understood other survey lines will be run off from it.

District 67 Board Sets Tax Needs

LADYSMITH—Subject to the approval of the councils of Ladysmith and North Cowichan and rural representatives, the tax requirement in School District 67 (Ladysmith) this year will be $150,224, it was announced at the regular meeting of the district school board.

Last year the tax requirement was $144,000.10. Trustee A. E. Beasley pointed out that this year's budget does not contain any levy for capital expenditures, as previous budgets had done.

"When we submitted the referendum by-law we promised the taxpayers that we would not levy additional amounts for capital purposes, and we have kept that promise," Mr. Beasley said. The budget, that totals $436,275, already has been approved by the education department.

Aircraft Company Employs 50 At Busy Patricia Bay Plant

By DON INGHAM
Times Island Editor

SIDNEY—In less than a year the Fairley Aviation Company Limited has transformed an old hangar at Patricia Bay Airport into a humming manufacture and repair plant that employs 50 persons.

Although growth has been fast, it has been steady and healthy, and shows no signs of slackening.

The company has a policy of keeping in step with naval air strength, so when the navy established its VU 33 Squadron at Patricia Bay Airport, the company followed to meet the navy's need for major overhaul and repair facilities.

WIDE EXPERIENCE

It has acquired invaluable experience in working on the navy's Avenger aircraft and its 1,500-employee plant at Eastern Passage, N.S., and it was this huge plant that provided the nucleus of executives and technicians to open the local branch. After starting operations, other work for the services came to light, commercial and private aircraft operators brought their ships in for repairs and maintenance, and expansion became necessary.

Already it has begun manufacture of its own spare parts and miscellaneous fittings, and has a budding design department.

Plant manager is Denis W. Howell, an engineer who trained, as a civilian, then joined the RAF during the Second World War. On going to work for Fairley Aviation at Eastern Passage he was concerned with production, and now finds that production and administration take all his time.

His second-in-command is Vernon Bowers, a veteran of 20 years service with the company.

Other technicians came from Victoria and elsewhere in Canada as demands grew heavier, and now the company has the largest payroll on the Saanich peninsula.

There is no "pussyfooting about" on an aircraft when it comes in for overhauls, according to Mr. Bowers.

"We strip them right down and tear everything out," he said. "Then we rebuild them from the bottom up."

He said the rigid demands of military services for their aircraft actually have attracted most of the civilian business.

WELL EQUIPPED

"Private owners like to think that their aircraft get the same painstaking attention as the service planes," he said. "That is what we give them, of course—the very best we've got—and they appreciate it."

The company is equipped to do any kind of work required on aircraft, including engine and airframe repairs, sheet metal work, radio repairs, painting, and even testing of certain devices.

At present it is overhauling a Lancaster from Comox that is on coastal reconnaissance and

All sizes of aircraft, from Harvards in foreground above, to huge Lancaster, visible at rear, can be accommodated at Fairley Aviation plant in hangar at Patricia Bay Airport.

Although extensive repairs are required, only a few other alterations had to be made since clear floor space is chief demand for successful operation of business of this type. Engine repairs are carried on in portion of building visible above, while airframe and manufacturing processes are located at left, beyond the camera range.

At left, R. G. "Tug" Wilson, originally from England, repairs radio equipment on Harvard aircraft at same time that extensive motor overhaul is being made.

Hangar is warm and dry at all times, permitting accurate work to meet rigid standards demanded by both military and company.

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

A dripping faucet brings out the worst in a woman. Especially a wife-type woman.

A man can stall around for a reasonable length of time, putting off fixing the lock on the bathroom door, and not finding time to replace the broken rung on the kitchen chair.

But a man stands helpless before a dripping tap. When a tap starts to drip, a woman wants it fixed this instant, or preferably sooner.

A woman doesn't even give a man a decent interval, such as a week or two to think the matter over, borrow the proper tools, and get into the mood for a major plumbing operation.

As an illustration of what I mean, take the case of the travelling salesman who returned home after a very successful selling trip.

In fact, he sold so much, and made such a whopping commission, he rushed into the house and told his wife he was going to buy her a new fur coat.

And can you guess what his wife said?

His wife said: "Fix the cold water tap in the kitchen. It's dripping."

A friend of mine had a dripping tap experience yesterday which was rather harrowing and, I think, illustrates the feminine attitude toward plumbing.

My friend announced he was going to fix the dripping tap. To do so, it was necessary to turn off the water at the main.

"I am going to turn off the water for a few moments," he said.

"Oh, dear," fluttered his wife. "Whatever will I do without water?"

"It will only be a moment or so," he said.

"But I have a cake in the oven," his wife said.

My friend explained turning off the water wouldn't necessarily interfere with the stove, and his wife accepted his explanation, although with grave doubts as to its validity.

"But what if someone should drop in?" his wife protested. "How could I make them a cup of tea if the water is turned off?"

My friend said she could draw a kettle of water before he turned it off.

His wife pounced on this idea with some relief, and then started remembering other things she might need water for.

Thus she insisted he fill the bathtub, the washbasin, and all available pots and pans.

Then my friend was permitted to put a new washer in the tap.

And after the water was turned on again, my friend's wife took her cake out of the oven.

It was flatter than the proverbial pancake.

"See?" cried my wife. "I told you so. You turned off the water and made my cake fall."

The sad fact about husbands is, they can't win for losing.

CITY YOUTHS 'MUSH' FROM Sooke CAMP

A group of youthful explorers had to hike out of the Sooke Hills Sunday after their truck became snow-bound.

Six 15 and 16-year-olds, members of the Soundings Club, and their leaders, Dick Faulks and Ron Berod, principal of James Bay School, drove to their cabin Saturday. While the camp slept, 18 inches of snow piled up outside.

They left their sleeping bags in the truck and set out to hike nine miles through the snow to Miles Landing.

The party was back in Victoria by 7.30 p.m., tired, stiff, but enthusiastic over color films they had taken during the long hike.

Sooke, Malahat Bear Brunt Of Snowfall

Weekend snowstorms blanketed the Sooke area under from four to six inches of snow, and dropped a total of 10 inches on the Malahat.

Highways department crews were out Sunday and today plowing and sanding district roads.

All traffic is proceeding without delay.

Observers say thawing was rapid in Sooke today. They expected all snow to be gone by tonight, except for sheltered areas.

Lake Cowichan was hard hit by a foot of snow which forced government equipment to work all weekend. Police reported a "rash" of minor accidents.

Weatherman William Mackie said the outlook was "improving a bit—but not much."

Skies will be mostly cloudy with a few sunny periods, and there will be occasional showers of rain and snow or pure snow.

Winds will be westerly at about 30 miles, he said, and temperatures will range between 30 and 40 degrees.

Weather this month is somewhat similar to March, 1955, when three records were set.

Lowest March temperature ever recorded occurred March 4, and the mean temperature for the month was a record low of 39.2 degrees.

There were 9.4 inches of snow last March, or 8.8 inches more than normal.

JELLYFISH SAILORS RETURN

A sharp-eyed grade nine student at Central Junior High School, Barbara Hodgson discovered Sunday that the veilella has come back.

A curious sea animal that thinks it's a sailboat, Veilella last called here 10 years ago and a massed landing on the beach below Beacon Hill is exciting news to Dr. Clifford Carl of the provincial museum.

He says the veilella is a relative of the Portuguese Man-o-war. In appearance akin to a spoonful of jelly, it mounts a single sail, coasts along the surface of the ocean in fleet order, for no apparent reason. It is also known as a "By-the-wind" sailor or "probably in the Orient" as "Sallee Man."

A world traveller, the veilella likes warm water. A pretty blue when alive, he apparently becomes colorless either when he dies or when he tacks into Victoria waters. Which is odd because others turn blue on entering them.

Canadian Forces Impress Attaches

Canada's armed forces and physical training facilities are the object of praise from a group of 26 naval, military and air authorities who today are visiting establishments at Esquimalt and Royal Roads.

Maj.-Gen. M. Hayaud Din, Pakistani military attaché in Washington, and military adviser to the Pakistan high commission in Ottawa, said Canada's army is "one of the best equipped and best trained" in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

"Canada's NATO commitments comprise a 'first class force,'" he said.

The military experts, representing 19 countries, are here in the course of a trans-Canada tour of defence establishments.

Another officer with the group, Lieut.-Col. Comte Francois de Henricourt de Grunne of Belgium, said Canada "probably possesses one of the largest military training establishments outside the Iron Curtain."

"Canada is fortunate to have large camps ready for rapid training of men in the event of emergency," Col. de Grunne said. "The establishment at Esquimalt, N.B., is one of the largest I've seen."

At Esquimalt this morning the visitors showed special interest in HMCS Venture, the training school for junior officers seeking a career in the RCN. Venture is now in its second term as a school.

The attaches arrived via RCAF North Star at Patricia Bay Sunday, and this morning were welcomed at HMC Dockyard by Commodore J. B. Caldwell, commodore-superintendent of Dockyard. After touring Dockyard and Venture, they went to Royal Roads for lunch and an inspection of the tri-services college.

They were to attend ceremonial divisions at HMCS Naden before a formal mass dinner at the wardroom.

The group will leave Patricia Bay airport Tuesday morning for Rivers, Shilo and Winnipeg before returning to Ottawa, where most of the officers are stationed.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Local Stores Are Carrying Teas to Suit Every Taste

By PENNY SAVER

I picked up a handful of folders in a grocery department today and was amazed to find that my education in the varieties and merits of types of tea is greatly lacking—or at least, it was lacking. I found out all kinds of things about this refreshing beverage. One folder began by saying "What do you know about tea?" Upon reading it, I found that there was actually little I did know. I won't try to give you a précis of the whole lot of pamphlets, but if you're interested in tea, you may at least learn some of the interesting names that you'll see on the various packages. Darjeeling, which grows along the northern border of India, is one of the mellowest in the world.

Orange Pekoe and pekoe black is a blend of Darjeeling, Ceylon and India tea. The "orange" refers to the coppery color of the tea leaf.

You'd never think so much preparation went on before a person could make a cup of tea. The Formosa Oolong tea leaves are picked when flavor and richness are at a peak, allowed to ferment or oxidize for a brief time, then the fermentation is arrested by heating over charcoal fires in bamboo baskets. The result: Formosa Oolong. It means Black Dragon. Apparently some imaginative Chinese fancied that the fringed Oolong leaf in the bottom of his cup looked like that fabled beast.

Open a tin of Jasmine tea, and imbedded in the tea you'll see whole dried jasmine blossoms, fragrant and exquisitely fragrant. This tea is a delicate Formosa Oolong. To prepare this perfumed brew, the tea is smothered with a blanket of jasmine blossoms, then spread

WHY GROW OLD?

Facts Proved About Fatigue During War Apply Today

Are you tired all the time? Perhaps you're being overly fatigued needlessly.

A great deal has been learned in recent years about fatigue. Second World War spark-plugged research and experimentation. Since our national production and defence depended on output we could not afford any more weariness than absolutely necessary.

It seems to me that we have forgotten many of the things which were discovered in the stress of war and which could be applied to everyday life in such a rewarding way.

Just off hand I can remember several things which were proven to be true in those days. One: in between meal snacks zoomed energy. Two: working in a relaxed mood decreased fatigue and increased output. Three: the right clothes and the right equipment for the individual makes the task easier to perform much easier.

Let us apply these ideas to everyday living. Think first of the woman or girl who goes off to work or school without an adequate work to do before noon. Everyone should begin the day with some of the essential foods under the English call this tea Keemun type belt. In the case of the woman who is reducing, in between meal snacks are most helpful. Of course, they should be counted in on the daily-calorie count and should be valuable nutrition-wise. Milk and fresh fruit or fruit juices are splendid for this.

Then we come to working in a relaxed manner. Huffing and puffing will not get you there any sooner! It will just wear you out. As a matter of fact it was found that anything which contributed to working in a relaxed mood led to more efficiency, fewer accidents and less fatigue.

Now let's think of the conditions under which women work. I studied this during the war. I remember that in one plant I visited they had found that the right height stool or table for the individual woman made a tremendous difference in the output of the worker.

Yet today in homes all over the country women are spending hours at kitchen tables and sinks and stools and ironing boards which are either too high or too low for them. Much fatigue results.

All during the war people were in a dither over such proven facts but these seem to be forgotten in the home today. If I were an architect of a designer I would make "hazy" out of this. For example all my kitchens would have easily accessible cabinets. Why don't you women who are furnishing kitchens and butler's pantries or building a house take this and all proven facts about work equipment and apply them to your home life.

Weather Plays Rough With Frostbiters

Royal Victoria Yacht Club "frostbiters" spent most of the time Sunday afternoon trying to keep their small craft from swamping, but managed to finish three of five scheduled races and settle the men's champion ship.

Rain and snow squalls and gusting winds threatened to spoil sails from the mast. Two patrol boats were kept busy on the course lending a hand to skippers who attempted to bail with one hand and handle the tiller with the other.

After a race was declared a draw with a total of 24 points. Although he won none of the races, he amassed points by consistent sailing.

Harry Barnes was second with 23 1/2 points, followed by Bill Teller, 19 1/2; Roy Murdoch, 19; and Peter Townsend, 18 1/2.

Junior races Sunday were called off by the race committee because of mean sailing conditions. Leading juniors over the season to date are Rob Denny, Chris Scott and Bob Smith.

Next weekend 12 senior skippers and six juniors will go to Vancouver for the first races in the annual home-and-home series with Royal Vancouver Yacht Club. Return races will be held here March 24 and 25.

False Teeth Need A Special Cleanser

Don't Brush Your Plates! Soak Them in Polident As Dentists Suggest

Polident is the recommended way to clean dentures, banish Denture Breath. Just follow these easy rules:

1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.

2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath".

3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only. Polident! Polident cleanser is recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling, no soap plates. Polident gets where a brush can't reach.

Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser, Polident, at your drug counter.

All Councils Pushing Wage Talks

Municipal councils of Greater Victoria will work toward settlement of wage negotiations this week in anticipation of an early start on 1936 estimates.

In Victoria, city manager C. C. Wyatt was slated to meet with representatives of the firemen's union this week. Wage boosts totalling $22,500 have already been given inside staff members and city police. Outside workers have been offered an increase of $18,000. Firemen have asked wage increases totalling $30,000.

Esquimalt public works committee was to meet today with municipal engineer John Graeme to draw up a wage offer for works employees. Outside workers have asked a 10-cent-an-hour boost to $1.51. Inside workers have asked 5 per cent across-the-board plus service pay after five years.

Parity sought. Esquimalt police are asking parity with Victoria, plus a 10 per cent increase, which would raise a first-class constable to about $352.

At Oak Bay, the council has offered a 3 1/2 per cent wage boost to police, firemen, inside and outside workers. Police have already refused the offer and firemen will meet with council this week. Outside workers have asked a varying scale of wage increases and service pay of 10 cents a day after five years.

Saanich council has offered all employee groups a blanket 2 1/2 per cent wage-hike for 1936 and 1 1/2 per cent for 1937. Deadline for acceptance of the offer is Friday. Council might then revert to one-year negotiations, it has been reported.

Ottawa Behind Health Plan Says Martin

VANCOUVER (BUP)—The Canadian government stands solidly behind its national health scheme proposals to the provinces. Federal Minister of Health and Welfare Paul Martin said in Vancouver Sunday night.

Martin said the proposed scheme, consisting of radiological, diagnostic and hospital insurance proposals, will cost Canadian taxpayers about $360 million annually.

"We are now awaiting replies from the provinces," he said.

Martin flew to Vancouver to address a Vancouver Men's Canadian Club luncheon today and to attend to departmental business in British Columbia. He will leave Vancouver for Calgary Wednesday morning.

He will address a Liberal meeting tonight, speak to University of B.C. students Tuesday morning and later open the new wing of the Indian hospital at Sardis.

BENNETT LEAVES FOR OTTAWA

Premier W. A. C. Bennett, B.C.'s finance minister, was scheduled to leave here today for Ottawa for discussions on the new federal-provincial tax agreement.

He will be accompanied by deputy finance minister J. V. Fisher, economic adviser and former finance minister Einar Gunderson and Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

The conference will be held in Ottawa Friday.

It is the second such conference attended by the premier within a year.

Government spokesmen have indicated the premier will restate demands of last April that the province receive 20 per cent of personal income tax and 10 per cent of corporation tax revenues.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Wage increases of $7 to $12, a month have been accepted by the Vancouver City Hall Employees' Association.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times, Victoria.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of The American People's Encyclopedia to Susie Hoffner, aged 11, of Wauwatosa, Wis., for her question:

Who Was Francis Drake?

The Spanish called him El Draque, the Dragon. And well they might! For in his day, Spain's power on the seas and in the New World were broken. And he, Francis Drake, did more than anyone to break it. Yet one Spanish captain was fair enough to write an honest opinion of this small man with the red beard. Drake, wrote the Spaniard, is one of the greatest sailors that exist. History records him as one of the greatest sailors that ever existed.

Drake was born in 1545, near the sea, in England. His monarch was the great Queen Bess. He lived in a day of exciting events. The New World was opening up and the nations of Europe vied for power. Drake went early to sea. Two ambitions, and his life became a dream, he achieved them both.

At 20, Drake was in a party of seamen defeated by the Spanish off Vera Cruz. He saw the way the Spanish treated their prisoners. From that time he never swerved from his ambition to break the power of Spain. He got together men and ships and became a buccaner. He raided, looted and plundered Spanish ships wherever he went. Philip of Spain felt the loss of his treasure ships and complained to Queen Elizabeth.

But Elizabeth upheld her bold buccaner. She secretly gave him money to follow his second ambition. In 1572, Drake had crossed the Isthmus of Panama and seen the Pacific Ocean. He Francis Drake, and in 1577 he set forth in five ships to accomplish this dream.

Only Drake's ship, the Golden Hind, survived the long journey. Once in the Pacific, there was no turning back. For the lion-hearted Drake had left a trail of plunder behind him. The Spaniards were waiting and in no mood for mercy. So Drake sailed on up the western coast. He claimed California for his queen. He crossed the Pacific as Magellan had done before him. He crossed the Indian Ocean and returned home by rounding South Africa. There he was greeted as the first Englishman to sail around the world. Elizabeth dubbed him a knight and dined with him on his ship—a ship weighed down with Spanish treasure.

Philip of Spain was angry when he heard of this. He planned an armada of ships to wipe England from the seas. The bold Sir Francis stole into Cadiz harbor and set fire to those ships. Philip rebuilt and a year later, in 1588, his ships were ready again.

Philip's Invincible Armada was defeated by England's fleet of smaller ships. Drake was vice-admiral of the victorious fleet. The famous naval battle lasted a week. When it was over, Spain's maritime power was broken.

Drake died some eight years after his great victory. He died at sea, where a great sailor would wish to die. He had lived through 51 of history's most exciting years.

OTTAWA (CP)—The University of Ottawa announced Sunday night that, in co-operation with Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., it will open a graduate course in nuclear engineering next September, the first course of its kind in Canada.

University president Very Rev. Rodrigue Normandin said part of the course will be at the university and part at the Chalk River, Ont., atomic plant of Atomic Energy of Canada, the government's atomic agency.

The announcement said that "the increasing awareness of the rapidly growing need for power in the Canadian industry has focussed attention on atomic energy as a future source of that power."

The new course, which will lead to the degree of master of science in nuclear engineering, will be open to mechanical and chemical engineers, engineering physicists and physicists.

BONNER WRONG, SAYS FAIREY

We Get $80 Million More Than We Pay to Ottawa

In the fiscal year 1954-55 federal government expenditures in British Columbia totalled $355,528,000, while federal revenue received from B.C. was $270,857,000, it was learned today.

A report listing the first figure was tabled in Commons following request for information by Tom Goode (Lib-Burnaby-Richmond). The second figure was received from the federal finance department by Victoria Liberal member Dr. Frank Fairley.

These figures show how far B.C. Attorney-General Robert Bonner is out, said Dr. Fairley.

Mr. Bonner had said the federal government takes more than $250,000,000 from B.C., and returns about $300,000,000.

"He does not state the $300,000,000 he refers to is only the direct payments to the government here by way of subsidies under the tax rental agreement," he said.

"Mr. Bonner conveniently ignores the other expenditures made by the federal government in B.C."

The department of finance statement to Mr. Goode showed $49,145,000 in expenditures in B.C. as compensation under tax rental and statutory subsidies. Including general health grants, old age assistance, vocational training and the like, this figure rose to $58,510,000. Including direct payments in pensions, family allowances and various other allowances, such as to veterans, the sum rose to $95,006,000.

Departmental work brought expenditures to $159,481,000, and with federal contribution to the Unemployment Insurance Fund, loans under DVA, and interest paid on government of Canada bonds, total expenditure for the fiscal year was $355,528,000.

The $270,857,000 received by the federal government in 1954-55 included $227,964,000 in income tax, $7,554,000 in succession duties, $19,689,000 in domestic excise taxes and $15,360,000 in excise duties.

adrian Senate and Commons, he skipped it entirely and continued by saying:

"It is evidently in the general interest of Western solidarity that preventive consultations, which up to now have an extraordinary character, should become the ordinary and permanent method of approaching problems of defence and peace."

It was considered unusual that a chief of state—Mr. Gronchi—is not his country's political leader—in a formal address. The reference to the Western Big Three was understood to have been eliminated at the last minute.

Eden Acts to Avert War As Mid-East Boils Over

Cyprus Offered New Status

LONDON (CP)—Britain announced today it has offered Cyprus a "wide measure of self-government now."

Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd made the announcement in a speech prepared for the House of Commons in conjunction with a White Paper detailing Britain's negotiations with Cyprus demanding union of the colony with Greece.

Lennox-Boyd said Britain would like to see Cyprus a free solution which will satisfy the people of Cyprus, be consistent with the interests of Her Majesty's government and their allies and have regard to existing treaties.

VISITED CYPRUS

The colonial secretary rushed through the report after a flying visit to Cyprus, where the talks with the union-with-Greece faction broke down over three major issues.

Britain previously had made plain she was ready to hand over restricted self-government to the Cypriots but retaining control of foreign affairs and defence.

LISTS OBSTACLES

The white paper said the three reasons for the failure of the talks with Archbishop Makarios, leader of the union-with-Greece movement, were:

1. The archbishop's insistence on an immediate amnesty for all political prisoners on the east Mediterranean island colony, where scores are held for anti-British terrorism.

2. Whether, under self-government, the British government should retain control of internal security in addition to foreign affairs and external defence.

3. Demands by the archbishop which would result in the Greek Cypriots outnumbering four to one the Turkish minority in the proposed constituent assembly.

Lennox-Boyd read to parliament a statement of British government policy as it was presented to Archbishop Makarios.

The statement stressed that Cypriots, four-fifths of whom are of Greek descent and the rest Turkish, "a wide measure of self-government now."

EXECUTED ANTI-REDS DUMPED IN STREETS

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—A mysterious wave of terror in Communist Romania, where slain bodies have been dumped and left on the streets as public warnings, was reported here today.

Reliable informants, who said they had checked and double-checked the reports because of their "unbelievable nature" claimed that several hundred persons had been apparently summarily executed in recent months to intimidate the population.

It was believed the Red regime in Romania wished to terrorize the population and warn that opposition would not be tolerated.

Nothing of the executions has appeared in the Communist press.

Czechs Seeking Wheat, Barley

Conference in Ottawa Arranging Two-Way Pact

By VICTOR J. MACKIE, Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA, Ont.—A 14-man Czechoslovakian trade delegation is now in Ottawa working on a multi-million-dollar trade deal between Canada and Czechoslovakia, including the possible purchase of 1,000,000 bushels of wheat, it was learned today.

The Czechs are also interested in purchasing large amounts of Canadian barley and butter.

The large trade delegation arrived in Ottawa during the weekend. They consist of officials of the Czechoslovakian government and are interested in "exploring thoroughly Canadian markets, not only for possible imports from Canada but also for sales of Czechoslovakian goods in this country," a trade and commerce department spokesman said.

The wheat purchases will be for immediate delivery unlike the Russian wheat deal which involves the purchase of large quantities over a three-year period. Czechoslovakia is interested in obtaining immediately a "pretty substantial quantity" one official said.

CONTACT FIRMS

The delegation has already conferred with trade and commerce department authorities for the possible purchase of the wheat, barley and butter. They are also contacting Canadian business firms and working out deals for the sale in Canada of large amounts of Czechoslovakian products.

Bedrich Hruska, Czechoslovak minister in Ottawa, said the trade delegates delegation "already is very satisfied with their trip here."

Canadian officials said they had no knowledge of what products the Czechoslovakians were seeking to sell to Canadian businessmen. One of the products they will be selling, however, will be the traditional glassware of the Czechs.

"Canadian officials of the trade and commerce department are doing their best to help the delegation both in buying Canadian products and in selling our products," the Czech minister said.

Survivors of Split Ship Flying to Seattle Today

SEATTLE (AP)—Her forward section wrenched off by high winds and mountainous seas, the Orient-bound freighter Washington Mail sank in the North Pacific minutes after the 60 crew members and passengers including four Canadians had taken to lifeboats.

But minutes later, the transport Gen. H. B. Freeman, brought to the scene by the freighter's first SOS, dropped rope ladders to the bobbing lifeboats and the 60 survivors scrambled up to safety.

"All survivors aboard, uninjured and in good health," the Freeman radioed.

The dramatic account of the rescue in the storm-swept Gulf of Alaska, some 700 miles northwest of Victoria Saturday night, was radioed to Seattle late Sunday night by Capt. Robert T. Fulton, skipper of the rescue ship.

It was virtually the same spot where the freighter Pennsylvania broke up in the same fashion, under the same conditions and sank with loss of all 46 men aboard four years ago.

The Freeman, with the 51 crew members and nine passengers from the Washington Mail, was en route to Kodiak, Alaska, today. Capt. Fulton reported, however, the same heavy seas that sank the freighter were holding the Freeman to a near-standstill and the vessel was not expected to reach port until late this afternoon.

The survivors will be flown to Seattle.

Among them were two Roman Catholic missionaries, one a Canadian, en route to the Orient. The Canadians aboard were Brother Charles Lebel, 38, of Montreal, who was travelling with Brother Charles Govaert, 50, of Arlington, Va. Miss Ivy W. Withers, 46, of Vancouver, and Vernon Lester, 45, and his wife, Phyllis, 42, of West Vancouver.

Miss Withers and Miss Charlotte Rodgers, 42, of Beaver Creek, Ore., were identified as nurses on a pleasure trip. Lester, a grain merchant, was en route to Tokyo with his wife.

The Washington Mail and the Freeman sail from here Wednesday. The freighter carried a cargo of flour and lumber; the Freeman troops being sent to Japan.

The storm hit about noon Saturday, and both ships rolled in 20-foot swells.

In his radio message Capt. Fulton said the pounding seas snapped the forward section of the 7,943-ton Washington Mail at 3:15 p.m. Saturday.

WALLOWS HELPLESSLY

Thirty minutes later, the forward section plunged to the bottom, leaving the derelict at the mercy of the seas and the winds.

The winds carried away the radio antennae and for 33 minutes the hull wallowed helplessly and silently. At 4:38 p.m. radio operator Perry Harrison got his emergency equipment in operation and sent out his SOS.

Capt. Fulton said he immediately ordered the Freeman to the northwest and radioed Capt. Dudley A. Durrant of the Washington Mail that rescue was 65 miles away.

At 7:20 p.m. a "blip" appeared on the Freeman's radar screen and 45 minutes later the ship spotted the hulk dead ahead.

Five minutes after the freighter went to the bottom, the first lifeboat reached the side of the Freeman, and passengers and crew scurried to safety. At 9:43 p.m. the second boat pulled alongside and its occupants joined the rescued.

Arab 'War Council' Gathers at Cairo After New Gunfire

(Times News Services)

LONDON—To head off threatening war in the Middle East, Prime Minister Eden today took personal command of Britain's foreign policy in the boiling Arab-Jew crisis.

Other developments:

1. New gunfire heightens Arab-Israeli border tension.
2. Britain withdraws 15 top officers from Jordan's Arab Legion in resentment for King Hussein's dismissal of Lt. Gen. John Glubb.

3. Eden tells Commons Hussein's action violates the spirit of the Anglo-Jordan treaty of 1948, and affects the whole Middle East. "Announces immediate talks with Britain's Mid-East allies."
4. RAF transports sent to aid.

Cyprus to evacuate Britons from Jordan, if the situation worsens.

5. Arab leaders gather in Cairo for "council of war." Eden faced an angry House of Commons today and rebellion within his own Conservative party. Many Tories are publicly calling for a British crackdown in the Middle East and an end to "appeasement."

Earlier Eden called top military men to an emergency cabinet review of the Mid-East situation.

Fears Arabs Will Spark War

New gunfire on the Israeli border, in which Arabs were branded the aggressors, highlighted reports British foreign office experts now believe—for the first time—that the greatest danger in the Middle East lies in possible Arab aggression.

Today an Israeli plane was hit over Israeli territory by Syrian anti-aircraft fire. In other gunplay an Israeli patrol and an Egyptian force traded shots for an hour near Kissufim in the Gaza Strip without reported casualties. Egyptian anti-aircraft gunners fired on another Israeli plane near the Gaza Strip, and Jordanian infiltrators attempted to sabotage the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv railroad.

KILLINGS ADMITTED
In Damascus the Syrian foreign office admitted Arab forces killed two Israeli policemen Sunday in a fight on the shores of the sea of Galilee.

Israel still listed as missing two other policemen reported wounded and captured by the Syrians.

Israel earlier had threatened counter-measures unless the four police were returned. Sunday's incident occurred in the region where Israeli forces, retaliating for what they said was shooting at fishing boats, attacked Syrian gunboats last Dec. 11 and killed 56 Syrians. Six Israelis were killed in that battle.

WAR COUNCIL
While the fighting flared near the Sea of Galilee, Premier Said El Ghazal flew from Damascus to Cairo with Syrian Defence Minister Rashad Barnada and chief of staff Brig. Shawkat Shukeir. They planned talks with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser before an Arab League "war council" Tuesday.

King Saud of Saudi Arabia also is on his way to Cairo. Political circles in Britain predicted the three Arab states would seek to draw Jordan into their mutual defence pact.

Hussein already has warned that Jordan would "work with the Arab world against all dangers threatening Arab countries and, particularly, against the Zionist danger."

Jordan radio broadcasts heard in Beirut, Lebanon, during the weekend revealed King Hussein fired his British commander-in-chief, Lt. Gen. Glubb, for refusing to reorganize Jordan's Arab Legion to meet a possible Israeli attack.

Hussein was cheered by nationalists today in his first public appearance since Glubb's firing.

Multiple Crash Near Nanaimo Injures Four
NANAIMO (CP)—More than $3,000 damage was done Saturday night when a truck crashed into two approaching cars near South Wellington. Four persons were taken to hospital here.

RCMP said the accident occurred when William Weeks of West Vancouver lost control of his half-ton pickup on the slippery road and side-swiped a car driven by J. R. Logan of Nanaimo. The truck continued on the wrong side of the road and landed head-on into a car driven by Walter Mackie of Ladysmith.

Mr. Logan and his daughter, Bernice, were both taken to hospital with minor injuries. Mr. Mackie and his wife were also treated at the hospital for minor injuries.

Early Saturday, Chris Ferguson and his son Ronald, both of Calgary, were killed when their truck crashed into the rear of another truck near Red Deer, 90 miles south of Edmonton. The driver of the second truck said he had stopped to check the clearance at an underpass.

SPLIT SHIP SURVIVORS
STORMBOUND AT SEARescue Vessel Due
At Kodiak Tonight

SEATTLE—Survivors of the Orient-bound freighter Washington Mail, which broke up and sank in the Gulf of Alaska, are not expected to reach here until Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

The same stormy seas that wrecked the Washington Mail have stalled the rescue ship, heading for Kodiak, Alaska, with the 60 survivors aboard.

The Orient bound freighter was wrecked apart late Saturday by mountainous seas. The forward section sank minutes after the crewmen and passengers, including four Canadians, had taken to the lifeboats.

But minutes later, the transport Gen. H. B. Freeman, brought to the scene by the freighter's first SOS, dropped rope ladders to the bobbing lifeboats and the 60 survivors scrambled up to safety.

"All survivors aboard, uninjured and in good health," the Freeman radioed.

The dramatic account of the rescue in the storm-swept Gulf of Alaska, some 700 miles northwest of Victoria Saturday night by Capt. Robert T. Fulton, skipper of the rescue ship.

BONNER WRONG, SAYS FAIREY

We Get $80 Million More Than We Pay to Ottawa

In the fiscal year 1954-55 federal government expenditures in British Columbia totalled $355,528,000, while federal revenue received from B.C. was $270,557,000, it was learned today.

A report listing the first figure was tabled in Commons following request for information by Tom Goode (Lib-Burnaby-Richmond). The second figure was received from the federal finance department by Victoria Liberal member Dr. Frank Fairay.

These figures show how far B.C. Attorney-General Robert Bonner is out, said Dr. Fairay.

Mr. Bonner had said the federal government takes more than $250,000,000 from B.C. and returns about $50,000,000.

"He does not state the $50,000,000 he refers to is only the direct payments to the government under the tax rental agreement," he said.

"Mr. Bonner conveniently ignores the other expenditures made by the federal government in B.C."

The department of finance statement to Mr. Goode showed $19,145,000 in expenditures in B.C. as compensation under tax rental and statutory subsidies.

including general health grants, old age assistance, vocational training and the like, this figure rose to $58,510,000. Including direct payments in pensions, family allowances and various other allowances, such as to veterans, the sum rose to $95,006,000.

Departmental work brought expenditures to $159,481,000, and with federal contribution to the Unemployment Insurance Fund, loans under DVA, and interest paid on government of Canada bonds, total expenditure for the fiscal year was $355,528,000.

The $270,557,000 received by the federal government in 1954-55 included $227,964,000 in income tax, $7,554,000 in succession duties, $19,689,000 in domestic excise taxes and $15,560,000 in excise duties.

Italian Reds Revolt

ROME (AP)—Dissident Italian Communists Sunday charged local party bosses with intimidation and treachery as they waged a small-scale revolt aimed at ousting some of the top leaders.

The name-calling was done openly at a meeting held in a Rome theatre.

Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd made the announcement in a speech prepared for the House of Commons in conjunction with a White Paper detailing Britain's negotiations with Cypriots demanding union of the colony with Greece.

Lennox-Boyd said Britain wants to work towards a "final solution which will satisfy the people of Cyprus, be consistent with the interests of Her Majesty's government and their allies, and have regard to existing treaties."
